Kenson

Kenson is one of the UK's most respected suppliers of SolarWinds® network security software products. We help to maintain a secure operational environment without having to set up a full-blown Security Operations Centre (SOC). We help achieve and demonstrate compliance in regulated industries while providing enterprise-level systems and network security management without the high price and complexity.

Kenson has been a SolarWinds® partner for over 17 years and we continually evolve to support the increasing number of IT security and management applications they develop as we must be able to support our customers whenever they choose to buy from us
